Today, I took a ride in a hot-air balloon. I had wanted to ride in a special shape, but none were ready when I wanted to start. The pilot, Nancy, showed me all the parts of the balloon: the big, colorful envelope, the comfortable gondola that we ride in, and the burner, which heats the air so we can go higher. Nancy explained that when we are higher, we gain altitude, and the wind blows in a different direction.

Bonus word: What the burners burn to heat the air.
